

Dorothy Day

Commonweal, 16 (June 22, 1932):212-213.

Summary: Depicts the gaiety of Black Christian worship and the lack of Catholicism in the south. Also relates the grief of a black woman at the death of her daughter and her daughters funeral. (DDLW #36).